

Small rooms, big ideas

It can be difficult to speak up in large meetings, but with breakout sessions, you can easily find your voice among the crowd and bring your best ideas to the table.

Hosts can pre-assign members, add or remove them on the fly, and even allow attendees to float between breakout sessions. Give your attendees a voice and the space to be heard in your next meeting by hosting breakout sessions.

Make room for big ideas

Small but mighty breakout sessions

Meetings with dozens of attendees are great for updates, but when you want time for creativity, brainstorming, and focus, breakout sessions give you the room you need to speak up and make big things happen.

Want to know more?

Check out webex.com:

- Breakout sessions >
- Best practices for attendees >
- Get Started >

Break free from the crowd

You don't have to talk over teammates to be heard or feel like you can't share ideas because no one can hear you. With breakout rooms, you can ask and answer questions, share ideas, and most importantly, be heard.

Hosts can assign rooms, mute individuals, move attendees between rooms, and more to help us all stand out from the crowd.

Join the conversation

Share your story and see how others are using breakout sessions, all in our Webex Community.

Visit the Community